Dear Doctors,

We now carry testosterone and DHEA ophthalmic drops for Dry Eye Syndrome (DES.) Androgens, such as testosterone and DHEA, regulate both lacrimal and meibomian glands and thus, restore the natural process of tear production.

As for surgery centers, we can make your pre-op drops for cataract and other surgeries for you. These Mydriatic Drops can be mixed with an antibiotic (such as gatifloxacin or moxifloxacin), mydriatic agents (such as cyclopentolate, tropicamide, and phenylephrine), NSAID (such as ketorolac), and anesthetic (such as lidocaine). This will save time and money for your practice. Please look at possible combinations below that will fit your need.

Mydriatic Phenylephrine HCl 2.5% - 10%

Mydriatic /Cycloplegic Cyclopentolate HCl 0.5%, 1%, and 2% Tropicamide 0.5% and 1%

Antibiotic Ciprofloxacin 0.3% (from Ciprofloxacin HCl) Solution, Levofloxacin 0.5% Solution, Gatifloxacin 0.5% Solution, Moxifloxacin 0.5% HCl Solution, Ofloxacin 0.3% Solution

NSAID Diclofenac Sodium 0.1% Solution, Flurbiprofen Sodium 0.03% Solution, Ketorolac Tromethamine 0.5% Solution, Bromfenac 0.09% (from Bromfenac Sodium) Solution, Nepafenac 0.1% Suspension

Anesthetic Lidocaine HCl 4% Solution for Injection, Tetracaine HCl Solution

We can also compound ophthalmic treatments for ACANTHAMOEBA infections. Below, you will see four options that you can prescribe for your patients, in any combination you deemed necessary. We can also compound several other eye drops. For example, we can make fortified vancomycin, fortified tobramycin, cefazolin, and amphotericin eye drops. Please, call us for more information. Thank you.

ACANTHAMOEBA INFECTION:

1. Brolene (propamidine) 0.1%
2. Hexamidine (desomidine) 0.1%
3. Chlorhexidine 0.02%
4. PHMB (Baquacil) 0.02%
